PRESS RELEASE

ESCP Europe climbs to 11th in the Financial Times rankings

ESCP Europe has risen to 11th position in the 2018 Financial Times annual European Business School rankings.

- Their EMBA ranks 6th in Europe and promises graduates an average salary increase of 65%.
- The Masters in Management ranks 5th in Europe and has an average salary increase of 49%.
- The Executive Education programme ranks 8th in Europe for its custom programme and 99% of ESCP Europe faculty have a doctorate, explaining the high teaching standard of the school.

Professor Frank Bournois, Dean of ESCP Europe, says: "With our Bicentenary coming up we are proud to celebrate our success and longevity with our entire community. We are the oldest business school in the world, we are also the first educational institution to have offered a truly European curriculum. This brilliant ranking reflects this. "

Léon Laulusa ESCP Europe's Academic Dean says "Our mission is to educate our future transnational leaders to build their own future and that of society to move tween cultures to develop a vision, and a critical spirit in order to inspire an entire community."

This ranking recognises the school's international position, but also the strength of its individual programmes.

About ESCP Europe

Established in 1819, ESCP Europe has educated generations of leaders and entrepreneurs. With its six urban campuses in Berlin, London, Madrid, Paris, Turin and Warsaw, ESCP Europe's true European identity enables the provision of a unique style of cross-cultural business education and a global perspective on international management issues. ESCP Europe welcomes 4,600 students and 5,000 executives from 100 different nations every year, offering them a wide range of general management and specialized programmes (Bachelor, Masters, MBA, Executive MBA, PhD and Executive Education). ESCP Europe is among the 1% of business schools worldwide to be triple-accredited (AACSB, AMBA, EQUIS).
